

Intentional Teaching with Anecdotal Records

When: March 15th or March 22nd
Where: IISD Thorburn Educational Center, Rooms ABC

Description: As a follow-up to “The Ins and Outs of Anecdotal Record Keeping” presented in the fall, Benjamin Hughes and Beth Whaley will host this work day for participants to utilize their own anecdotal records to purposely plan instruction for their classroom. Participants will gain:

- A renewed understanding of quality anecdotal record-taking
- An improved ability to analyze and assess anecdotes, using the developmental continuum
- An increased understanding of the relationship between anecdotal data, analysis and the planning process
- A greater familiarity with the developmental continuum
- A better understanding of team planning and teaching
- New ideas for classroom activities and instructional strategies across domains and the daily schedule

Sign up as a teaching team!

Choose the date and time that best fits your schedule, classes will be limited to 40:

- March 15, 2013 from 8:30-Noon
- March 15, 2013 from 12:30-4:00
- March 22, 2013 from 8:30-Noon
- March 22, 2013 from 12:30-4:00

To register: <http://pd.inghamisd.org/pdsession/intentional-teaching-with-anecdotal-records/>

Participants should bring:

- Creative Curriculum users: Creative Curriculum Volume 5: Objectives for Development & Learning and a printout of your TSGold Class Profile report
- HighScope users: Planning Around the COR and a printout of your COR Class Anecdote Status report

The IISD will have laptops available so that participants can log into their assessment tool.